What is the program?

Ten weeks of mentored, research-intensive activities in the field of Synthetic Biology

- Including nine weeks of hands-on research at the interface of biology, engineering, chemistry, math and physics in a Northwestern University laboratory

Workshops, seminars, activities to strengthen related skillsets

- Communication, design, ethics, teamwork, and entrepreneurship

Who is eligible?

U.S. citizens, permanent residents and U.S. nationals are eligible

- College Juniors preferred, though Sophomores and Seniors will be considered
- Majoring in engineering, chemistry, biology, biophysics, computer science and/or mathematics
- Available for at least 9 weeks during the summer of 2019

How do I apply?

Visit synbreu.northwestern.edu for more information

Deadline for application: January 24th, 2020

Deadline for recommendation letters: January 31st, 2020